

Mark Wilmer

Mark Wilmer, vice president; is an original member of TWC Construction, Inc. (TWC). In addition to the integral role he played in the development of TWC's strategy and formation in 1997, he has also been responsible for supervision of all client-side operations for the past 17 years. He is the qualified employee on Nevada, Arizona, California, and Utah licenses.

Mark brings nearly 30 years of experience to his position, 20 of those as a senior executive in the Southern Nevada region overseeing a multitude of large-scale and often times high profile projects for a blue-chip list of clients.

Born in Phoenix, Arizona, and raised in Southern California and Las Vegas, Mark is a graduate of Bishop Gorman High School and The University of Nevada, Reno. He began his career in Southern California as an estimator and project manager where he learned every aspect of his craft from the ground up – including the ability to conceptually estimate and budget from “cocktail napkin ideas” through completed engineered design.

The skills he acquired during the formative years of his career have come in handy as he moved back to Southern Nevada to take on a leadership position with developer B.H. Miller Contractors, and then onto forming TWC in 1997.

During his nearly 30 years working on commercial and industrial ground-up and tenant improvement projects, Mark has consistently delivered a fully integrated, quality design/build experience to clients. His professionalism and philosophy regarding customer service contributed to TWC's growth from a start-up to one of the largest and most respected firms in the Southern Nevada region.

The professional reputation and relationships he built during that period has contributed to TWC emerging from the recent recession (that hit no region harder than in Southern Nevada), as not only a survivor, but also a winner now building some of the largest projects ongoing in the region.

He is a member in good standing of the Nevada Alpha Chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. A father of two young daughters, Mark enjoys all outdoor activities including boating, skiing, hunting, and fishing.
